Rust's Flying Service began in 1963, when retired Air Force Colonel Henry "Hank" Rust founded the company using a Piper Super Cub (two-seat airplane) to fly hunters and fishermen to remote areas of Alaska. As times changed so did the business. Rust's Flying Service added airplanes to accommodate more fishermen, hunters, and eventually flightseers. For over 40 years, Rust's fleet has grown to include nine seaplanes, including deHavilland Beavers, Otters, Cessna 206's, and a Caravan.

K2's ski plane fleet has grown to include Cessna 185's, deHavilland Beavers, Otters, a Piper Cherokee, and a Navajo Chieftain. In addition to taking climbers to Base Camp, K2 offers spectacular tours of Mt. McKinley and surrounding mountains featuring glacier landings within Denali National Park.
